

Seema Mehra Parihar

Dr. Seema Mehra Parihar, is a Joint Director of Developing Countries Research Centre, University of Delhi since 2010 and Associate Professor at Department of Geography, Kirori Mal College for the last 27 years . Her Ph.D. is on ‘Natural Resource Management in the Bhagirathi Basin’ from Delhi School of Economics, University of Delhi. Her Post-Doctoral Fellowship at Department of Geoinformatics, Cartography and Geovisualization, ITC, Enschede, The Netherlands involved designing and developing a web based course in Web Geoinformatics. During the last three decades she has worked with geospatial tools and technologies, including GIS, Image Processing, Digital Learning Software, Macromedia and Web Tools, as well as conducted innumerable workshops for college faculty, school teachers, and researchers and for Government based projects. She was awarded Bhoo Samman by the Bhoovikas Foundation, India in 2005. She has also published many related articles and presented a number of papers in international conferences and is undertaking research projects. She is currently working on climate change, wetland management and inter-sectoral convergence projects, including Gender Atlas of India.

A trained behavioural assessor and an avid trekker, she has also been actively associated for more than thirty years in spreading the movement of National Integration. She was also a founder Chairperson of Central Placement Cell, University of Delhi ; a Deputy Dean Students' Welfare, University of Delhi and a Trainer of the Trainer of the UGC Capacity Building Programme for Women Managers in Higher Education.